COLLABORATE | ENGAGE | DISCOVER

Dive into an array of dynamic discussions and activities at Navigating Risky TPRM Waters! TPRA was founded on the business objective of being a conduit for networking and collaboration, breaking down barriers, connecting, and sharing best practices in order to form and solidify meaningful relationships. As the threat landscape becomes increasingly complex and regulations demand a sharper focus on third party risks, networking and benchmarking with peers have never been more critical. Attendees will leave with fresh perspectives and actionable strategies to enhance their TPRM practices and elevate their organization's overall risk management efforts.

BENEFITS OF CONFERENCES

Conferences bring the industry together to tackle shared challenges and uncover solutions that drive collective progress. The networking and idea exchange fostered at these events propel both organizations and the industry forward—and your participation is an essential part of that journey. Conferences offer a platform for attendees to share knowledge and insights while engaging in meaningful conversations with professionals from diverse backgrounds, varying program maturities, locations, and more

Beyond networking opportunities and peer interaction, the TPRA also issues Continuing Professional Education (CPE) credits, helping practitioners maintain their existing security and risk-related certifications. Earn up to 14 CPE credits by attending our in-person conference.

Supporting your team's attendance at events like this demonstrates a commitment to their professional growth while ensuring your organization stays informed on the latest TPRM trends and practices.
