Third Party Cyber Risk Assessor© (TPCRA©) Certification

The TPCRA Certification is a specialized qualification designation to confirm your understanding and skill in the assessment of third party cyber security controls and processes, as well as validate your competency in the creation, execution, and management of third party cyber risk assessments.

Domains:

- Cybersecurity and Third Party Risk Management Basics
- Pre-Contract Due Diligence
- Continuous Monitoring
- Physical Validation
- Disengagement
- Cloud Due Diligence
- Reporting and Analytics

Certification Eligibility Criteria:

- At least three years of experience in a full-time risk management/analyst and/or cybersecurity related role. Evidence of work experience must be submitted via the "TPCRA Work Experience Form" linked below.
- Substitutions may be obtained for up to one year of work experience. Substitutions may include, but are not limited to 60 to 120 completed university semester credit undergraduate hours in an information security and/or information technology-related major, a master's degree in information security or information technology from an accredited university, an active information security-related certification from an accredited institution (ex. CISSP, Security+, CRISK, CISA, CISM).
- Additional substitutions for work experience will be taken into consideration during the application process and reviewed/approved by the TPRA.

Exam Training & Prep:

- Certification applicants may choose to purchase the book “Cybersecurity & Third Party Risk” by author Gregory C. Rasner as the book closely aligns with the TPCRA Certification.
- You may also choose to participate in optional TPCRA training, which includes a copy of the “Cybersecurity & Third Party Risk” book.
- Training provides you with 12 hours of in-depth discussion on the examination domains, hands on experience designing and performing cyber assessments, as well as opportunities to perform mock interviews and run through physical validation scenarios.
- Training is taught by a knowledgeable subject matter expert who has achieved the TPCRA Certification designation.

TPCRA 2023 Training Dates:

- TPRA offers both nighttime and daytime training formats virtually, as well as an in-person training to be offered during the Spring 2023 in-person conference.
- Training Dates:
 - Virtual: January 23 - 26 @ 6 PM to 9 PM Central each night
 - Virtual: March 6 - 8 @ 8 AM to 4 PM Central each day
 - Virtual: March 27 - 30 @ 5 PM to 8 PM Central each night
 - In-Person: April 24 - 26 @ 8 AM to 4 PM Central each day

Exam Outline

- 150 multiple choice questions in a variety of formats, such as scenario-based, true or false, and choose the best response.
- Exam will be offered in person at a Pearson-Vue location. (Pearson-Vue has over 5,000 test centers worldwide!)
- Time limit is 3 hours.
- You must receive 80% or higher to pass the TPCRA examination.
- Certification testing will launch in January 2023!

TPRA Future

2023 Objectives:

#	Objectives
1	Retain and attract membership by offering value-added benefits and programs.
2	Develop and publish value-add content to ensure Practitioners stay ahead of the curve related to new risks and trends.
3	Create and implement value-add conferences to bring current, industry-related topics to the membership and provide for the opportunity to network with peers.
4	Continue to enhance TPRA vendor benefits through discussions with the vendor membership and ensure practitioner members have the ability to easily access the services each vendor member provides.
5	Continue to sustain the health and sustainability of the TPRA while maintaining compliance with regulations and mitigating risk.
6	Create and implement a Practitioner Certification Program to add credibility to and promote the value that third party risk professionals and practitioners add to their organizations.
